

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A process is provided for producing an image display device which includes a thin film semiconductor device. In accordance with the process, semiconductor crystal grains are grown in a transverse direction in a semiconductor film by modulating a continuous wave laser into a pulsed laser beam and then irradiating the pulsed laser beam on the semiconductor film.